PLAY

"PAT"

"Seventeenth Summer," a delightful three-act play concerning teen-age problems, was presented by the seniors to an appreciative audience on Friday, Dec. 1. The play, which was directed by Mrs. Skala, assisted by Tharon Fox, was one of the most successful ever produced on our stage. Its splendid cast was made up of:

Angie	the girl	Patricia Hatton
Margaret	her engaged sister	Sally O'Neil
Lorraine	her hopeful sister	Marlene Wells
Kitty	her little sister	Marvis Smith
Mrs. Morrow	her mother	Marilynn Schubert
Mr. Morrow	her father	Andrew Hillhouse
Jack	the boy	Richard Anderson
Martin	Lorraine's hope	John Cleary
Art	Margaret's fiance	Robert Smith
Jane	a menace	Mary Bobonic
Tony	a boy friend	Harry Ball
Margie	a girl friend	Nancy Bichler
Fitz	her "steady"	Gordon Petri

The most eagerly awaited event of each school year is the annual Junior-Senior Prom. The Prom, which was held at Culbertson Hills Country Club, May 12, 1950, was no exception. The excellent music of Gene Parlette helped to make the Prom one of the most successful ever to be held. The evening was high-lighted by the crowning of the King and Queen, James Blose and Eva Salchli. Queen Eva was honored by four lovely attendants: Carol Boyce, Christiane Hazen, Shirley Heuer, and Jeanne Thayer.

This delightful affair was made possible by the following committee members: Nancy Bichler, Chairman; Marilynn Schubert, Dick Anderson, Tharon Fox, James Wachter, Marlene Wells, John Bretz, Betty Thompson, Gordon Petri, and Patricia Hatton. This committee worked hard and long to make the Prom the success that it was.

SAY–

"Make mine ALSCO Aluminum COMBINATION STORM-SCREEN WINDOWS and DOORS"

The demand for ALSCO has been little short of phenomenal. That's because home owners who've ALSCO-ized, advise their friends to select ALSCO, America's outstanding combination storm-screen window. They recommend ALSCO because it's neater in appearance, easier to operate, affords greater fuel savings, requires no up-keep and because it means a lower final cost. You may have a free demonstration without obligation Why not call us and convince yourself that ALSCO is the buy for you.

THE MISER

The day already was becoming old-and still
There sat in a deserted house across the street a man.
His face was wrinkled, and the day
Which slowly disappeared in somber darkness
Seemed to creep into his entire being.
All day had he been staring into empty space.
To him the world meant nothing-all but
His riches had betrayed him. His money
Was his closest friend-a friend who,
without mercy,
Had left him all alone.--There, in
His deserted home sat he and stared into
The disappearing world.

MR. POLY

D. ANDERSON

Champs again is the cry. For the second year in a row Coach Poly has directed our team to the County Championship. Winning thirteen games and losing only one was our record in the league, while only losing three out of the league. Once again our team should be complimented on its fine show of sportsmanship. We could never have succeeded without the teamwork, and skill of our players.

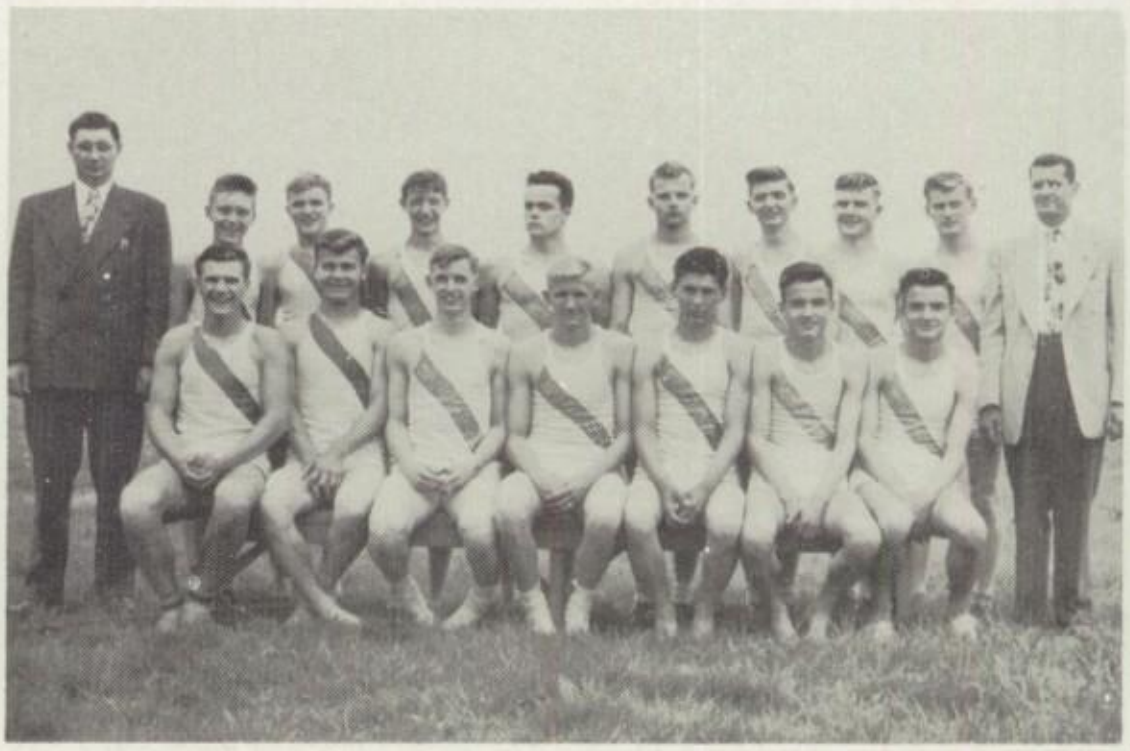
GOLF

The 1950 Lawrence Park Golf Team had a fairly successful year, tying Prep for third place. Those boys who put us there were: T. Burick, B. Saylor, A. Hillhouse, D. Anderson, H. Altman, and L. Stahlgren.

The fellows trying to make the 1951 golf season even more successful are: D. Anderson, A. Hillhouse, H. Altman, and L. Stahlgren.



TRACK

Although the "50" track season was not a highly successful season, the team improved with each meet. The record of the track team was 1 win and 4 losses. At the district meet, we took a second place which enabled them to go to Penn State.

TENNIS

The scholastic tennis league opened last year on May first, the 1951 Lawrence Park Tennis Team got off to a good start by winning 5 matches out of 6. Most of the games were played on the home court while one was played at Ainsworth field. The top men on the team were, John Cleary, Robert Finley, Blaine Minhinnick, and Howard Beanland.

MARKETTES

DRUMMERS

The Markettes are in their second year of existence and have thrilled crowds with their precision and marching. These girls, who function so well under the direction of Mrs. Elliot are: Aline Compton, Ann Eagles, Joan Goodman, Mary Guerin, Janet Kester, Mary Luce, Pat Palotas, Patty Royal, Shirley Sowers, Autumn Spiegel, Patty Thomas, Carole Vorsheck, Alice Webb, Donna Woolstrum, Dorothy Yadeski, Drumers; Kitty Bichler, Kay Nantes, Donna Conley, and Marilyn Crews.

BATON TWIRLERS

FLAG TWIRLERS

These girls are to be commended on the excellent twirling they have done this year to help make the basketball season a little more colorful. They have displayed their skill at baton and flag twirling as well as giving many original performances. The twirlers are under the direction of Mrs. Elliott. The baton squad consists of: Peggy Smith, Claire Jordon, Linda Nason, Kathleen Robinson and Suzanne Ziegler. The flag squad consists of: Barbara Orchard, Fae Gerard, Suzanne Eddinger, and Gloria Perry.

THE FOOTBALL PLAYER

His mind is weak and
His back is strong.
He calls the signals
But they're all wrong.

He blocks and tackles
But it's never done right.
His passes and kicks
Are always a fright.

John Webb

FOOTBALL

When the football season opened, 8 lettermen and a squad of 50 promising reserves reported to Coach Yost. They spent two weeks in shorts getting into shape for the tough schedule that lay ahead. The boys played their finest game of the season with Otto Township. Don Spears and Bob Conley were selected to play in the Lion's Save-An-Eye East-West game.

Co-Captains for the year were Bob Conley and Bob Kline. There will be 10 lettermen returning for the 1951 squad. The outlook is bright for a championship team. This year's lettermen are: Conley, Kline, Whipple, Anderson, Yates, Kikstadt, Ferguson, Webb, Hillegas, Bendig, Spears, Johnson, Stanton, Minhinnick, Rushton, Petri, Samson, and Goodman.

JUNIOR CHEERLEADERS

This group of younger cheerleaders were all chosen this year. They did an excellent job of cheering, especially since they had no previous experience. The members of the outfit are: Phyllis Nantes, Barbara Perry, Bonnie Rhode, Sandra Gigandet, Jackie Schwartz, and Patty Miller.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

The cheerleaders are extremely proud of the fact that the senior squad now boasts new uniforms. The girls presented many novel cheers and much vim and vigor at all the games. The members of the regular squad are: Janet Welsh, Nancy Bichler, Patty Hatton, Vi Stefano, Jeanne Williamson, Pat Spadafore, and Roberta Brindle. Mrs. Rook is the group's adviser.

Drums--Patty Hatton, Marilynn Schubert, Judy Berdine, John Noyes, John Aydelott. Bells--Audrey Cleary. Basses--Ed Boyles, Norman Rushton. Baritone--Andrew Hillhouse, Charles Leemhius.

JUNIOR HIGH CHORUS

The Junior High Chorus presented a delightful program at Christmas time. This group consists of girls in grades seven through nine. The direction of this chorus is capably handled by Mrs. Bollman, who prepares these girls for the Senior Chorus.

ATTRIBUTE TO MOM

How often Mom does sacrifice
To help make life a cinch!
She always runs to help us
When we are in a pinch.

What will we do when she is gone
And we are left alone?
Will people--our utter helplessness--
Be happy to condone?

Oh yes, we are dependant souls,
My brothers three and I,
But someday our children, too,
Will fear for us to die.

Nancy Drake

DISAPPOINTMENT

Expectation overcame me.
Impatiently I had to wait.
Then it all exploded.
Bringing me--my fate!

Boberta Brindle

A brand new license
A brand new car
The boy is young
I'm sure he'll go far.

A long strip of pavement
A short strip of ice
The boy was so young
What a sacrifice!

Judy Lye

Lines and rhymes are not for me,
As you can plainly see,
For with these lines of poetry,
I'm sure to get an E.

Merry Bobonic

POETRY

SNOWFLAKE

I wish I were a snowflake,
A-whirling in the air.
For if I were a snowflake,
I wouldn't have a care.

I'd dance and spin and flaunt myself,
Out in the cold brisk, air.
I'd slide down all the icicles,
And land in people's hair.

I'd flit around till summer time,
Then I would have to go.
'Cause summer suns would melt me,
For I am their worst foe!

Jean Myers

PERPLEXED

The doors of life have opened
For us to wander through,
Which pathway shall I follow.
Have you that question,too?

To college, a profession?
I know not what to do.
An office job, a factory?
It's all so very new!

Nancy Bichler

STORE-BOUGHT

There's one day I will ne'er forget
As long as I do breathe
The day that Daddy dear came home
With a pair of store bought-teeth.

I still remember his awkward smile
As the family in wonder gawked
I'll never forget his chattering
When poor Daddy ate and talked.

Poor Pop! He never had much chance
To boast of his new prize
For friends who saw him on the street
Stared in shocked surprise!

Now I know how Daddy feels
Too bad he was so blue
But now I sympathize with him
'Cause I wear store teeth, too.

Betty Jo Kuss

MY SISTER

I have a little sister
Who is really quite a pest.
When she goes out to play at night
That's when I get my rest.

She's always running to and fro
With lots of pep and vim
In sports she ranks among the top
In education-she is dim!

Mary Pochey

WISHFUL THINKING

I wish I could explain the snow,
But I also wish that it would go.

I want the trees to bud and bear
I want the sun to shine sincere.

There's a time and a place for all
You'd think March would be a time for Spring to call.

Patty Mason

Futility

Far away on foreign lands,
Stand soldiers weary and worn
They die for peace which never comes.
In lands of foreign born.

Ronny Spadafore

CONFUSION

Mother just received a most terrible shock,
Her face was white and she couldn't even talk,
Do you know what suddenly made her turn dumb?
Seven year old Chris just asked,
"Mama, where did I come from?"

Sally Kristiansen

SWEETNESS AND LIFE

Bright green it was,
Standing in the candy case,
A long striped candy cane.

A shiny new nickel,
Held in a grimy, clenched fist,
Opened to receive its prize.

No longer green is the cane,
Nor has it been eaten.
It lies on the road as a witness
Of the broken child beside it.

Judy Berdine

FUTILE

You can't tell and neither can I,
You say you can, just try
Does color or size
Have anything to do with personality?
You say it does
Why don't you face reality?
Can you tell by the color of a suit?
Can you tell by the size of the shoe?
Can you tell by the color of skin?
You say you can--just try.

Lawrence E. Gray

BOOKS

Books are like humans
In more ways than one
They may be hated or
They may be fun.

Some are so short
And some are long
And many others
Are sweet as a song.

Yes, books are like humans
In more ways than one
Did you ever try reading?
It's really fun!

DEBATE

The Debate Society has in the past year debated such teams as North East, Harborcreek, Wesleyville, Academy, Milcreek, Bradford and Girard. Under the leadership of Miss Carnahan, the debaters enjoyed a successful season. Membership included: Negative--Roberta Brindle, Patricia Spadafore and Howard Higby. Affirmative--Jane Shaffer, Ray Mattson, Audrey Cleary and Joan Brechbiel. The debate question, resolved "That Social Welfare Benefits to the people be extended by the Federal Government," was a tough but intresting one.

SAFETY PATROL

The Safety Patrol deserves a bouquet for the splendid work they are doing. This is their 23rd year of "no accidents" whatsoever. They stand in rain, sleet, snow, and shine; and no one ever hears them complain about their job. They truly like their work

STUDENT COUNCIL

It can be said of all well-organized bodies that good representation is its back-bone. This year's Student Council, under the capable leadership of Andrew Hillhouse, made possible the well planned student activities' slate for 1950-51. Other officers include--Russ Mosher, Patricia Spadafore, and the official figure-juggler, Nancy Drake. In no small way was this success due to the well-qualified guidance of Mr. Gill.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

The activities of this junior branch of the National American Red Cross consists chiefly of making holiday favors for our local T. B. Hospital. They also pack and send Christmas gift packages to under-privileged students in foreign countries. Special representatives attend monthly meetings at the chapter house in Erie and work with other Erie members

LAB ASSISTANTS

The members of the "work-loving" lab assistants are: Alvin Corzilius James Wachter, John Cleary, John Bretz, Skip Mattson, Jim Ferguson, and Howard Higby. They are under the direction of Mr. Gill.

STUDENT LIBRARIANS

Our library could not be so efficient as it is without the help of the student librarians. These students keep our books in good condition and perform various other duties in their quiet, unnoticed way. So, to this group, whose officers are--Joyce Dorman, Carolyn Mosher, Ann Kuhlman--we now say Thanks!

COMMERCIAL CLUB

The Commercial Club consists of Seniors in the seventh period Typing class. The purpose of this club is to enrich their knowledge of business life. The officers this year are: President, Marilynn Schubert; Vice-President, Tharon Fox; Secretary, Fae Gerard; Treasurer, Thelma Phillips; with Mrs. Paysour as their adviser. Their activities consisted of field trips, social gatherings, and guest speakers.

USHERS' CLUB

The Ushers' Club has been very successful this year. Under the guidance of their faculty adviser, Mrs. Sova, the ushers have reached last year's goal. They are now proudly displaying their new uniforms.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Because of the intense interest shown by the members of the 11th and 12th grades, the Future Teachers of America Club was organized.

This organization familiarizes the prospective teachers with the duties pertaining to the profession.

They have participated in excurions to Edinboro State Teachers College, Behrend Center, and Villa Maria College.

This year the president is Nelson Ryan; Judy Lye is Vice-President; while Virginia Greenlee is secretary. Mrs. Skala is the faculty representative.

SENIOR Y-TEENS

This group is composed of 10th, 11th, and 12th grade girls under the supervision of Mrs. McDanniels and Mrs. Paysour. It is primarily a service organization, but they also have many social functions.

Their officers are: Pres., Marlene Wells; V. Pres., Ann Wilson; Treas., Tharon Fox.

JUNIOR Y-TEENS

The Junior Y-Teens, composed of 7th, 8th, and 9th grade girls, are under the direction of Miss Forsyth. The officers of this group are: President Carol Hague; Vice-President, Linda Nason; Secretary, Patty Royall; and Treasurer, Nancy Jo Campbell. The girls meet monthly for the purpose of fellowship, instruction, and social enjoyment.

LOS VECINOS BUENOS

The Spanish Club, Los Vecinos Buenos, is very active in our school. Besides enjoying many social gatherings, they have promoted better relationships with our foreign friends. Membership is open to first and second year Spanish classes and those who have completed two years. This club is under the capable direction of Miss Bell.

OFFICE MONITORS

This group of girls, ranging from grades nine through twelve, can be seen every day busily running errands for the office staff. This is a fine way for girls to ge practical experience in office work, and to find whether or not their interests lie in that type of work.

SPEECH CLASS

One of the most worthwhile, optional activities of our school is the speech class. In this class students learn to speak clearly, distinctly, and to speak before a group. Their talents are put to best use through introducing our many assemblies and through the entertaining Christmas Play.

HOME MAKING CLUB

The sewing club is a new organization composed of nine teen girls. Some of their interesting projects are: personal sewing, style show, mother and daughter tea, and the sewing of stuffed toys for needy children.

The officers are: Donna Woolstrum, president; Dorothy Yadeski, Vice-president; Beverly Blunt, secretary; Joan Linquist, treasurer.

ATTENDANCE MONITORS

The girls who pick up our absentee slips and who keep our attendance records accurate, deserve much credit. These likeable lassies are: Mona Shaffer, Mary Pochey, Judy Berdine, Sally Kristiansen, Vi Stefano, Tharon Fox, Thelma Phillips, Marilynn Schubert, Bonnie Zimmerman, Bertha Savage, Marlene Wells, and Marvis Smith.

STAGE CREW

The boys who make up the stage crew are kept busy doing such things as pulling the curtain, keeping the materials ready back stage for every program and play, and taking care of the lighting. This group consists of the following boys: Don Hillegas, Bob Dobson, Avedis Avedisian, Jack Sheehan, David Frick, Don Craft, Jim Ferguson, Eddy Dalglish, Delbert Shaffer, Frank Compton and Don Bendig. They can be found back stage nearly any time, and they deserve lots of credit for the splendid job they have done.

BOYS' INTRAMURAL CAPTAINS

The Boys' Intramurals program has been quite successful. This may be because of the great variety of sports offered. Every homeroom has a representative who, in turn, becomes a member of either the senior or junior league, depending on what grade he is in. The homeroom captains pictured near-by are: John Adyelott, George Matosian, Richard Brucker, Jack Yount, Jim Pier, Dave Anderson, Don Hillegas, and Dave Chilcott.

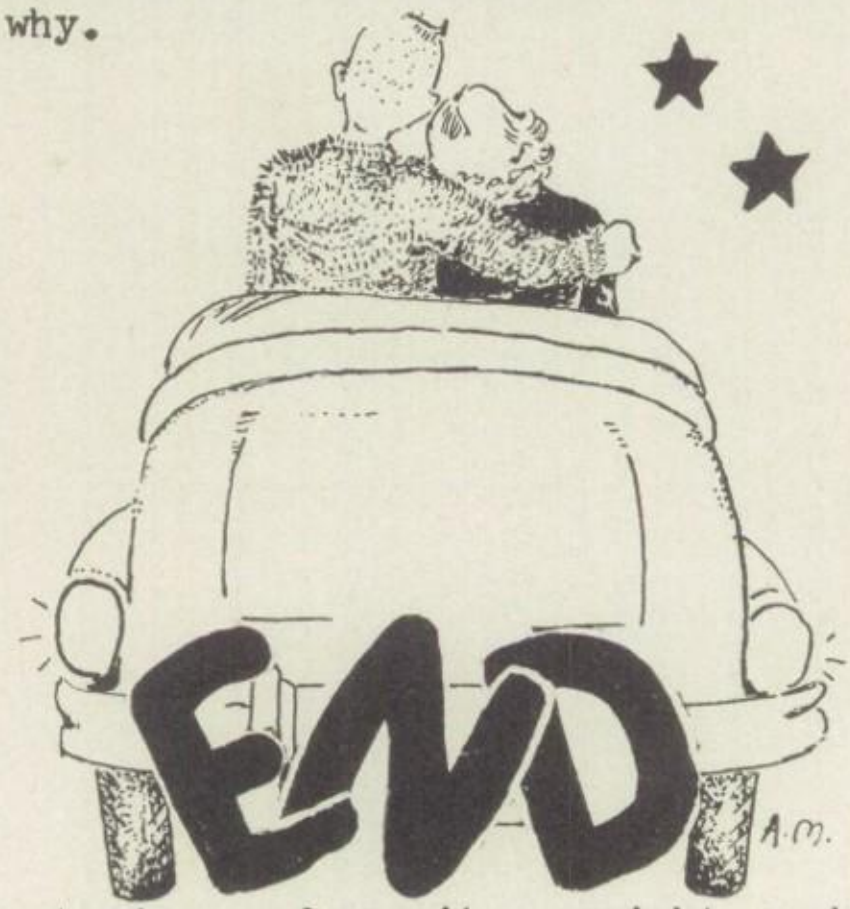
THE NIGHT BEFORE THEY CAME

It was night. Now and then a flash made the room light, and a gunshot was heard in the distance. The little girl lay in bed and did not know what to make of all this confusion. The last day had been so exciting and terrible. She did not have to go to school during these last days because the enemy came nearer and nearer, and the parents wanted their children home. So down she went to the beach and met her friends there. While they were playing peacefully, they suddenly heard a plane over their heads and looked up. It was an English plane; it was the enemy. The other children ran away, screaming, but the little girl could not move. Her eyes had to follow the plane that went out over the sea until it was over the big ship. Then it dropped something. The girl often had seen this in the movies, so that she knew what that meant. The plane dropped a bomb on that ship. A black cloud with little pieces whirling around in it rose from the boat, and then it looked as if there was a big fire swimming on the water. She stood there, her eyes fixed on this terrible and fascinating picture. The explosion made the ground shake and the little girl startled, turned around, and ran right into the arms of her mother, who was looking for her. Now, that she was safe in her mother's arms, she cried, but did not really know why.



That had been yesterday, and now it was night, and the girl was in bed, all dressed with coat and boots on. Any minute they might have to leave the house. Her brothers and sister were sleeping, but she could not find rest. She did not understand this world. Had she not prayed each night that her country would be victorious? And now the enemy came, and would probably destroy the whole village. Slowly the dawn came, and nothing had happened, yet. The street looked deserted; everybody stayed in his house. The girl stood at the window, looking out, waiting for those men she hated. Those men, who had destroyed her home, who had killed so many friends, who had bombed that ship the other day. She could think of nothing else but: "I hate those Englishmen. There they come now, slowly driving up the mainstreet of the village." There were three men in a jeep, without any guns. They looked like human people; one of them looked even a little bit like her father.

Suddenly she remembered that her father was a soldier, too, and that he also had destroyed homes. He had to do it, because he had to obey orders. He did just the same, as these Englishmen did. She was so ashamed of herself for having hated these people. Suddenly she realized, that they all were equal; they all behaved alike and felt the same things. They had just been separated by a wall of misunderstanding and ignorance for such a long time.
